Region's Streams Are Torrents, but No Floods Reported

Business Was Started by Louis Kaplan Over 50 Years Ago in Kingston

Streams of Ulster county and the general Catskill Mountain area were raging torrents again today as the result of recent rains, but reports from all sources indicated no serious flood conditions anywhere in the region.

The heavy rains within the past 24 hours although of longer duration than those of last week registered less than two inches throughout most of the county while that for two days last week was nearly five inches in most areas.

The total rainfall to date for November has nearly doubled the October total of 2.65 inches according to figures on Tuesday's and this morning's rain released today by the city engineer's office.

A total of 1.90 inches fell during the two-day period. It was learned, bringing the month's total to 4.89 inches. Tuesday's rainfall was .91 while today's mark was .99, the city engineer's office said.

Despite Tuesday night's heavy downpour, no serious incidents were reported. However, the Board of Public Works were called out at 1:05 p. m. Tuesday and again at 1:05 a. m. today to clear catch basins on O'Neill street which were causing flooded conditions from Broadway to the railroad tracks on O'Neill street.

Fall to 6.14 Inches

Officials of the New York city water department reported the total rainfall to date this month at 6.14 inches. This includes a fall of 1.87 inches of rain within the past 24 hours and the nearly five inches of rain last Friday and Saturday.

The crest of the Esopus creek at Cold Brook was reported raised to 8.87 feet today while last Saturday it was as high as 12.35 feet. The danger point is set at 12.7 feet.

Two Billion Added

The rain of yesterday and early this morning added two billions of gallons of water to the Ashokan system and brought Kingston's Cooper Lake reservoir up nine inches.

The Ashokan now has 85 billion tons of water of its normal 130 billion capacity and the supply continues to mount.

Cooper Lake is now only six feet below crest and John J. Byrne, superintendent of the local water department, said today that the reservoir is expected to be filled within the next two weeks.

The Schoharie water shed again had less rain than in the Ashokan area. The rainfall at Gibon was 1.33 today and yesterday and the total up there this month is 3.56. The Gibon reservoir is gaining substantially in its supply of water as the result of recent rains, however.

Stassen Urges Support Of Food Saving Plan

New York, Nov. 12 (AP)—Harold E. Stassen, announced candidate for the 1948 Republican presidential nomination, said today that the nation's food industries should support President Truman's voluntary food saving program while seeking "its constructive mobilization."

In an address prepared for delivery before the National Food Industries Convention, the former Minnesota governor said that food has a "critical relationship to the current crucial question of both our domestic economy and our foreign policy."

Actions of President Truman's administration in meeting the food crisis "have been quite confusing and have been too long delayed," Stassen said.

American Airlines Ship Makes Landing With Fire Burning Under Fuselage

25 Are Unhurt

Passengers Are Shifted to Another Craft at Albuquerque

Gallup, N. M., Nov. 12 (AP)—At least four airlines grounded their huge DC-6 planes today, pending an inquiry into the cause of a fire which forced an American Airlines ship to make an emergency landing.

The Douglas Aircraft Corp., which builds the four-engined planes, also urged that all other users of them do likewise until cause of fires "have been established and eradicated."

Twenty-five passengers and crew personnel emerged unscathed yesterday after the American Airlines' DC-6 came in for a spectacular emergency landing at Gallup airport with flames spouting from beneath its fuselage.

The two-story building, which has undergone extensive remodeling, now presents one of the most modern stores and showrooms in the city while that for two days last week was nearly five inches in most areas.

The total rainfall to date for November has nearly doubled the October total of 2.65 inches according to figures on Tuesday's and this morning's rain released today by the city engineer's office.

The Kaplan store for over a half century not only has served residents of the downtown section of the city but people from all sections of the city as well as residents of the townships throughout the county.

Long-time employees of Kaplan's include Paul J. Kaplan, Jr., who as office manager has been connected with the concern for 15 years. Ephriam P. Schabot has worked as a finisher for the company for 20 years.

On the main floor of the new uptown store are displayed living room suites, occasional chairs, major appliances and Glenwood and Calrose ranges. The rug floor covering department also is located on the first floor and features rugs and carpeting by Bigelow-Sanford and Gullstan and hard surface

Steinman, Joyce Attend Luncheon

Bridge Engineers Are Guests of Loughran at Rotary Session

Dr. David Barnard Steinman of New York, noted bridge engineer and Walter E. Joyce, also a bridge engineer, were Rotary luncheon guests today of James F. Loughran, Bridge Authority member and Ulster County Superintendent of Highways.

Dr. Steinman recently executed a contract with the New York State Bridge Authority for preliminary work to lead to the erection of the Kingston-Rhinecliff bridge, which Governor Dewey approved during the last session of the legislature.

Mr. Joyce, who was resident engineer during the construction of the Rondout creek bridge, will be in charge of preliminary work for Dr. Steinman. He returned from the West Coast early this month. While in the west Mr. Joyce was engaged in bridge construction.

How much the United States knows about Russian progress or lack of progress toward producing an atom bomb. (In the spy trade, this is "counter intelligence.")

Any hint of United States progress in improving its own bombs.

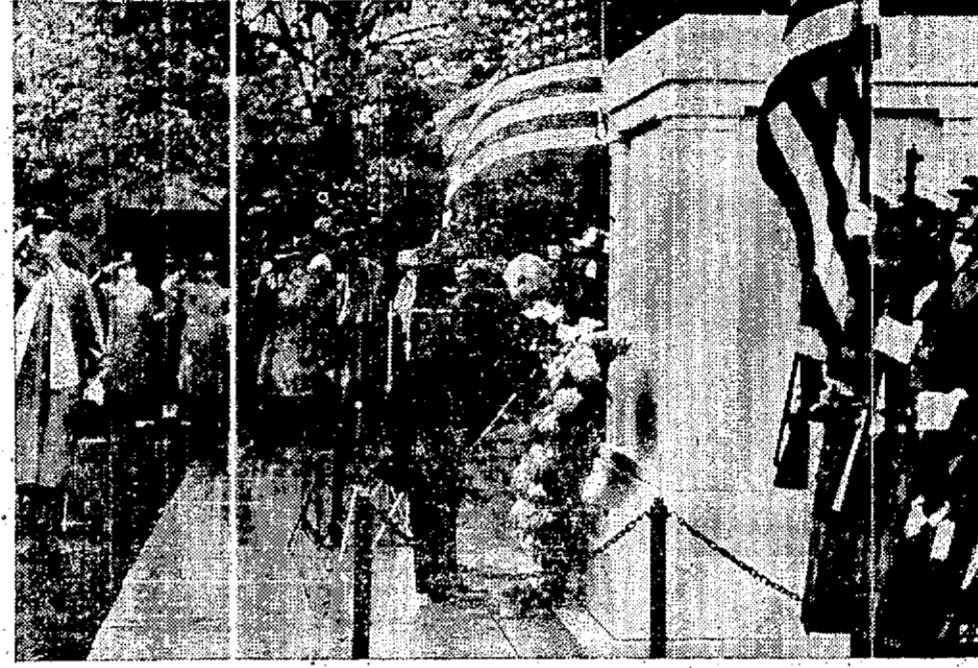

Whether the United States or any other power has a workable method of detecting an atomic bomb test explosion that might be made in some hidden corner of the world.

In a military intelligence fishing expedition, the idea is to plant the rumor where it will be stumbled upon by publications not necessarily friendly to the source.

The instance of the dispatch printed yesterday by the Paris newspaper L'Intelligente was cited as an example. The dispatch—telling of a purported test explosion of a 12½-ton atomic bomb near the Russian city of Irkutsk—came to L'Intelligente from Prague where it was reported to have arrived through "confidential sources" from Moscow.

In the case of the A-bomb, for instance, Russia would like to know:

National Guard Will Be Activated At Local Armory

Elaborate Program Will Mark Event; Dance to Follow With Sal Cast Band

Activation ceremonies for the 156th Field Artillery, New York National Guard, will be held Thursday at the New York State Armory on Manor avenue, with an appropriate program it was announced today by Capt. Harvey Keator, public relations officer.

Lt. Col. Frank W. Harkins, who will take over officially as commanding officer, has extended invitations to military and civic celebrities, and is anxious that the public turn out in large numbers for the occasion.

"We can feel extremely proud of the men who have enlisted in the 156th Field Artillery," Kingston's and Ulster county's own patriotic sons who rallied to the call for defenders of the nation," said Col. Harkins. He added, "The National Guard is the main defense between an enemy's front line and our own front door."

The doors of the armory will open at 7 p. m. Starting at 8:30 the activation service will go on the air and last until 8:55 o'clock. Religious and civic leaders will be present, as well as military representatives from the offices of Gen. Drum's staff, the 77th Division headquarters, and adjutant general's office.

The program:

Invocation—the Rev. Burton Tarr, superintendent of Kingston district, Methodist Church.

Address—Representative of the 27th Division.

Swearings in ceremonies—Lt. Col. F. W. Harkins, commanding officer, 156th Field Artillery.

Religious service—Rabbi H. I. Bloom of Temple Emanuel.

Address—Col. John Sweeney of Newburgh, commanding officer of the former 56th Infantry Regi-

Marshall Says China Aid Will Be 70 Per Cent Efficient

Truman to Speak On Aid and Prices

President Will Give Talk to Congress Monday

at Special Session

Washington, Nov. 12 (AP)—Secretary of State Marshall said today the government is working on a program to help China with the expectation that any funds will be used with "about 70 per cent efficiency."

Marshall also told the House Foreign Affairs Committee it "is our feeling" that any assistance to Europe ought to be supplied immediately to keep the supply pipeline filled.

The secretary appeared before the committee for questioning on the administration's foreign spending program as he did yesterday before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee. And the questioning started out today covering much of the same ground as they did yesterday.

Rep. Kee (D-W. Va.) wanted to know about prospective help for China, which Marshall has figured at around $300,000,000 over 15 months. The secretary said the situation is one of "great complexity" that the government wants to "do something helpful" and is trying to develop a program in which funds will be used perhaps with 70 per cent efficiency.

No one asked him immediately what they could not be used with 100 per cent efficiency.

While Marshall talked to the House group, Secretary of Commerce Harriman told the Senate Foreign Committee that $597,000,000 in goods can be supplied to France, Italy and Austria as emergency aid without further strain on this nation's economy.

Harriman appeared before the senators to back up the interim aid program proposed by Marshall to meet "real" and "urgent" needs in the three countries before a long range recovery plan is put into effect March 31.

Senator Taft of Ohio, head of the Senate Republican policy committee, already has launched a drive to trim the administration's proposals and has picked up support from G.O.P. ranks. He expects to bring the issue to a showdown before the policy committee on Friday.

Harriman, who headed a citizens committee that recommended a smaller recovery program than the one urged by Marshall, told the Senate group that the proposed emergency aid includes these outlays:

Food—$301,000,000; coal—$184,000,000; petroleum—$35,000,000; cotton—$38,000,000; fertilizer and seeds—$35,000,000; and medical supplies—$4,000,000.

Harriman said as a result of progress in food savings and buying program, it appeared that food supplies "will be sufficient for an export program corresponding in total amount" to the proposed interim aid.

"No New Impact."

There should be "no new impact upon our domestic grain markets," he said, although "export purchases already have had a substantial impact on domestic prices" and contributed to the high prices of wheat.

In his address on the occasion of the 30th anniversary of the Red revolution, Molotov asserted that the secret of the atom bomb "has long ceased to exist."

The Atomic Energy Commission gave this report:

Fuel—Proposed coal shipments could be made without strain because they would be "substantial."

Meyers Says Hughes Offered Cash, House, Job at Los Angeles

New Mexico Heads Toward 'Battle' of Newark Channel

City Officials Alert Their 'Navy' to Douse Arrivals, if They Push On

Newark, N. J., Nov. 12 (AP)—The onetime battleship New Mexico rolled toward her last battle—the battle of Newark bay—at reduced speed today as one of her two tow tugs became disabled.

A coast guard cutter and plane rushed to the aid of the tug which was helping tow the decommissioned New Mexico toward Newark, N. J., scrapyard from Boston, N. J. Newark officials, who want no more ships scrapped on the city's waterfront, have sent two tugs armed with chemical spray and water hoses to block the New Mexico from the Newark harbor channel.

The coast guard reported the C. Haywood Meek has cast off from the 30,000-ton New Mexico in rough seas about 17 miles off Fire Island and 35 miles outside New York harbor. The tug radioed she was in danger and might have to be abandoned, the coast guard said.

Meanwhile the Tug Dorothy Anne Meek continued to lug the battleship along toward the entrance of New York harbor, of which Newark bay is part.

Tense crews of the Newark Navy, relaxed, momentarily with the "enemy," still 24 hours or so away from that showdown with its fleet of two 30 foot fireboats at Port Newark channel.

Crew in Alert

The Michael P. Duffy, its two deck guns capable of firing 2,000 gallons of water and foam a minute at a 40-foot range rode through the night with its crew of six on the alert against any attempt to slip the 30,000-ton former battleship through the channel under cover of darkness to a salvage dock here.

Fire Captain Walter Danowski in command of the flagship of the Newark Task Force, gave orders to his men to stand easy once the skies had cleared and it became evident that the oncoming forces would have to be deployed at a safe distance from the patrol.

" Didn't think they'd dare to make a night raid on us," said Capt. Danowski without the trace of a smile. "And it's good for them they didn't."

While Marshall talked to the House group, Secretary of Commerce Harriman told the Senate Foreign Committee that $597,000,000 in goods can be supplied to France, Italy and Austria as emergency aid without further strain on this nation's economy.

Tuck Discusses Haitian Problems

Woodstock, Nov. 12—Dictatorship as practiced in the Dominican Republic created little interest as compared with Haitian Democracy when James L. Tuck, Woodstock writer, compared the two systems of government for the benefit of members of the Woodstock Discussion Group on Sunday evening at the home of Miss Elsa Kimball.

Mr. Tuck has spent a good deal of time in the West Indies, particularly during the past two years while gathering material for a series of articles which have appeared in this week.

Obviously many in the audience considered the Haitians to be the more fortunate people in spite of their impoverished condition as described by the speaker. Whether "freedom with the right to starve as experienced in Haiti or food and cleanliness without freedom as seen in the Dominican Republic" is the better system was the question posed by Jim Tuck at the conclusion of his talk. "Personally, I prefer Haiti because in spite of present conditions, there is hope while in the other republic, I can see no hope," said the speaker.

"In the light of political action today, probably one of the most interesting questions is the application of the economic theory which we in the United States have developed and lived under; namely, free enterprise and the right of a man to do what he wants in developing his own business . . . hiring people, paying a feasible wage, selling manufactured articles for as high a price as possible and pocketing as much of that price as possible. Without much study or investigation we are anxious to implant on or maintain a similar theory for the rest of the countries in the world, in opposition to Fascism and Communism. In the West Indies, we find many interesting islands to study, any one of which can be taken as an object lesson in bad economics."

The fallacy of the one-crop was used as an example, because the total economy of such a country or section was dependent upon a high price for the crop, which is the situation confronting the Haitians today.

According to the speaker, factories in Haiti were forced out during the years of administration by the United States, because of high duties imposed on imports. As an example, duties on chemicals were raised some 350 per cent and industries moved on to the Dominican Republic. Other types of industry formerly located in Haiti have also moved to the Dominican Republic so that today Haiti's economy is 95 per cent agriculture.

Haiti President Dumarsais Estime and his government are making strenuous efforts to interest United States industry in locating in that country, but it is proving to be a very slow process because of the established 60-cents per day minimum wage as compared with 28 cents minimum daily wage in the Dominican Republic.

Run Like Corporation

Rafael Trujillo, President of the Dominican Republic, who is the virtual dictator, runs his country like a corporation. It was learned, prior to his regime, industry was non-existent but now there are many forms of industry, including concrete, cement mills, match factory, brewery, clothing, pottery, and others. "The President is the law in the country," said Mr. Tuck, "and under the totalitarian structure, American businessmen desiring to locate there, deal directly with Trujillo who takes 10 per cent of all deals for himself, five per cent for his country. He guarantees no labor troubles, no strikes, and wages of 28 cents for an 8-hour day. There are no Communists because they would not last. Beggars found on the streets are imprisoned as are those showing signs of uncleanness."

The dictator is reputed to be fast becoming one of the world's richest men whose wealth at this time is estimated to be in the neighborhood of $200,000,000.

In spite of the low wages paid workmen in the Dominican Republic, nobody starves to death, it was learned, because of the abundance of fruit. The average wage in the cities, including the white collar workers, is eight cents per day.

A comparison of the safety of the two leaders was made and described. Estime's unprotected journeys throughout his land an ordinary man walking in peace, as against Trujillo who travels in a car with three personal bodyguards, five trucks filled with soldiers in front of his car and two jeeps with machine guns. Following the leader's car, more of the military and repair trucks for the handling of emergency breakdowns.

audience were particularly interested in the cultural project in Haiti. The Art Centre, apparently is a very popular place where the children and adults come in to paint and do sculpture. Most of the painting is done with furniture enamel on cardboard. Mr. Tuck said it was amazing to see the painters working from behind the easel. Another thing that interested the speaker was the fact that Haitian painters never sketch. Too, the leading painter is a Voodoo priest, another outstanding artist, an automobile mechanic, and yet another, a cook.

Women Have Power

Educated women in Haiti have a great deal of power although they have no right to vote unless and until they are elected to the senate and deputy, when they have as much power as the men. At present there are two women in the senate. The schools, it was learned, are very poor. Children are entered at the age of eight years and mothers are supposed to teach the children of pre-school age. During their first years in school, the youngsters are taught among other subjects, Latin and Biblical appreciation. Mathematics, however, is not taught until the student enters the secondary schools. However, it was stated, that Haitian College graduates would have some difficulty in getting into the average American high school.

The need for better schools and health programs was stressed. The illiteracy in the country is said to be about 80 per cent. Haiti's total population is three and one-half million, of which some three million persons live without electricity or any of the elements that go with it.

Budget Is 10 Millions

Haiti's budget for the current fiscal year is $10,000,000 which sum is to be raised by taxation. The government officials, however, find it very difficult to collect the taxes because this is an entirely new idea to the Haitians who, for generations have been accustomed to burying or hiding their money. They do not use the banks which was evidenced by the fact that with a coffee crop last year of $8,000,000, bank deposits did not increase as much as one per cent. There are apparently no tangible signs of the money that comes into the country. Mr. Tuck said that during his recent visit, he was astonished to learn that the Haitian president and a number of cabinet members had not received any pay for at least two months and were "so broke." One wonders, if, in view of these problems, whether a system of benevolent capitalism in free enterprise system, will work in a country such as Haiti, lacking in raw materials, technicians, schools, etc."

At the close of the meeting, it was obvious that many artists were toying with the idea of visiting Haiti in the near future. The poor but happy peoples depicted by Jim Tuck were very appealing and the speaker was called upon for information regarding transportation, housing facilities, climatic conditions, etc.

PLATTEKILL

Plattekill, Nov. 11.—The regular meeting of the Plattekill Home Bureau unit will be held Tuesday, November 18, at 8 p. m. in the Plattekill Grange. Miss Ethel Sampson, Ulster County Home Bureau demonstration agent, will suggest ideas on refreshment serving. Arthur Millard gave a lesson on blouse making at a meeting held Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Albert Terwilliger. The first lesson on making handbags was given recently by Mrs. Linwood Underhill and Mrs. Bernard Konaski.

Mrs. Milton Van Dusen and Mrs. Bernard Konaski attended a meeting of the Public Health Nursing Committee of the Town of Plattekill, held Monday evening of last week at the home of Mrs. Russel Minard in Clintondale. SCIENCE TO THE RESCUE Waldemar Kaempfert, writing in the New York Times, says that British scientists are coming forward with cures for Britain's economic ills. Research, properly planned, organized, and directed, will bring out ways of bridging the gap between exports and imports, says this writer, quoting from a statement issued by the Association of Scientific Workers.

Prevention of waste ranks high on the list of remedies sponsored by the scientists: A 25 per cent rise in efficiency of the use of coal would equal a 50 million ton increase in production. New Standards for testing steel and more careful calculation of stresses would increase production in that line. Greater use of concrete blocks for building would do away with the necessity of importing brick and timber. Increase of agricultural areas by plowing up pasture lands would mean larger crops. Prevention of waste all along the line is emphasized by the scientists.

Perhaps England's economic problems may be solved by putting them into the hands of the nation's scientific men for immediate practical solution.

AIDING ITALY'S CRAFTS

Italy's skilled craft workers are coming back with material aid and encouragement from America. Some 4,000,000 Italians, about one tenth of the country's population, normally are engaged in handicrafts for a living. The war made terrific inroads in the industries, not only through bombing damage as at Faenza, cradle of ceramic art, but in supplies and equipment of all sorts.

An American non-profit group, Handicraft Development Inc., has collected funds and been instrumental in setting up kilns, sending machinery parts, materials and money to restore workshops and to help individual artisans. The Americans backing it are largely Italian-born anti-Fascists who fled during the Mussolini era, but who understand the value to Italy of its handiwork.

The china, glass, textiles and leatherwork turned out can become an important contribution to Italy's foreign trade income, but more significant still is the morale value of this reviving of handicrafts, for Italy for generations has been a country where the handworker was important.

SAVING GRAIN

According to the nation's meat processors a great deal of grain can be saved that is now wasted by careless or ineffective handling in connection with livestock feeding. A group representing 90 per cent of the men in the meat business submitted a conservation program to the President that cut corners on grain consumption and was aimed at releasing quantities of food needs abroad.

From studying their suggested economy grain program it is apparent that American profligacy characterizes grain handling as it does so much else. For instance, the meatmen suggest feeding damaged or off-grade wheat to livestock; substituting other grain like oats, barley, rye as a feed and utilizing all of the corn plant since the stalk contains half the nutrients. Also rat extermination was stressed. Statistics show one rat can consume 50 pounds of corn and waste another 100 pounds in one year.

Getting at grain saving in places where grain is used in vast quantity, as in livestock feeding, is one way to set up a really effective grain conservation program. Enlisting practical men is always a good idea. Usually they are willing to cooperate.

NEW WAY TO BRUSH

There is always something new to be learned, even about brushing the teeth. According to Dr. Charles J. Hentschel of New York, addressing the Tufts College dental alumni, the important thing is to do the brushing within three minutes after each meal. A longer delay gives acids a chance to form from the starches and sugars eaten, and it is these acids that cause tooth decay.

Sometimes it seems as if the owners of store teeth escape a lot of worry. On the

THE HARRIMAN REPORT

First came the Krug Report; then the Nourse Report; and now the Harriman Report. These, together with the Bevin Report, form the program that the President will present to Congress on November 17. And to the Congress will also be presented the Herter Report, prepared by a committee of its own members and undoubtedly a plan worked out by Senator Vandenberg and John Foster Dulles related to Governor Dewey's address on the Marshall Plan.

From the government's side, the Harriman Report is most important for its grim honesty, its stark acceptance of the cold war. No longer can the soft-minded hopes for misunderstanding continue to deny what has been true since Yalta, and even before, that the United States was defeated in World War 2, not by its foes, Germany and Japan, but by its ally, Soviet Russia.

And so Harriman faces the problem of the relief of Europe as though this country were at war with Russia. It is the first pronouncement of this nature by the government of the United States, for Averell Harriman speaks as a member of the President's Cabinet in the course of official business.

He said: "We all know that we are faced in the world today with two conflicting ideologies. One is a system in which individual rights and liberties are maintained. The opposing system is one where iron discipline by the state ruthlessly stamps out individual liberties and obliterates all opposition."

The last words of his summary are: "The wartime alliances have melted away yet it is safe to say that at no time in history has there been more need for Western Europe and the United States to stand firmly together."

In effect, this puts an end to the concept of One World. It is a recognition of the division of Europe into two camps, the Comintern and the anti-Communist American aid to Europe, in accordance with this statement is to make war on Communism.

If the forthcoming meeting of Foreign Ministers finds no way of laying a basis for a peace with Germany and Japan, then it is clear that this division of the world into two antagonistic groups has become an historic fact. It means a separation between ourselves and the Russians, between the Western nations and the Comintern nations. It means that the UN will become the exclusive agency of its present majority and that the Comintern nations will probably leave it in anger.

The Western nations then must become realistic about aid from America. The Harriman Report stresses unduly that "aid from this country should not be conditioned on the methods used to reach these goals, so long as they are consistent with basic democratic principles." This is a refined way of saying that we ought not to object to British socialism. Actually we ought to be absolutely certain that every dollar we contribute is used productively, that it is not wasted as the British Loan was wasted, as much of UNRRA was wasted. We ought to establish an Authority that can cooperate in planning production without impairing sovereignty and we ought to provide credits on the installment plan so that there is every assurance that American productivity is used to stimulate European productivity and not to undermine business and political penury.

It would be a mistake to assume that Congress is going to permit the Harriman proposals to re-establish economic controls. It is impossible to control a segment of an economy. That always fails. As Bernard Baruch had said dozens of times, control is impossible unless everything is controlled. The Administration would like to control some commodities but it does not establish a totalitarian economy. Furthermore, we know that if Congress begins to debate controls, it will never end the debate on aid to Europe. The injection of this issue may defeat the Administration's purposes.

Mr. Marshall last June made an ambiguous statement at Harvard which, however, became a hard fact when 16 countries took it up. We are now in the American stage of that problem, when the one country that is to be the provider has to speak. It is now out of the hands of diplomats; it is up to Congress to protect America while aiding Europe—and China.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M. D.

PAIN IN SHOULDER AND ARM

I frequently write about low back pain and sciatica because it is so common. Until we learned that many of these cases were not caused by infection or sprain of the sacro-iliac joint, rupture of one of the cushions (disks) was not suspected as a cause of low back pain and sciatica. A crushed or rupture of a disk or cushion between the spine bones of the neck is now known to be a common cause of pain in the back of the neck, shoulder and arm.

Some months ago I wrote of this pain in the neck, shoulder and arm as being caused by pressure on the roots of the nerve and nerves supplying the neck, shoulder and arm. I told of how many cases were relieved by the individual standing and sitting erect, or wearing shoulder braces to overcome the effects of round shoulders or poor posture. Many of these cases are caused by the side or transverse process of the bones of the spine pressing on the roots of nerves. Removing this extra portion of bone (cervical rib as it is called) gives relief from pain in the neck, shoulder and arm region.

Just as a ruptured disk between the bones of the spine in the lower back causes low back pain, so does a ruptured or crushed disk between the spine bones in the neck cause neck, shoulder and arm pain.

Some months ago I wrote about this pain and its cause, and recently research workers have been finding that this cause of pain is more common than was thought.

In "Archives of Surgery," Chicago, Drs. F. V. Kristoff and G. L. Odorn report 20 cases of ruptured intervertebral disk between the spine bones of the neck. The pain may be caused by pressure from the disk on the large nerve of the spine (spinal cord), or on the roots extending from the spinal cord and roots. In all cases there was a history of an injury in this region—most often blow on the head or repeated injuries to the head and neck.

In most cases the history, as told by patient—usually a history of a blow or fall; together with his description of the location and type of pain—enables the physician to diagnose an injured disk and appropriate treatment is given.

Where the roots only are compressed, extension of the neck and application of a support gives relief, or an operation to remove the disk is performed.

Where, however, the spinal cord itself is compressed, injecting the cord with a substance shows tip by X-ray the exact location where the pressure is, and an operation is performed.

Leaves From Boyle's Notebook

By HAL BOYLE

New York (AP)—The long, line of men and women in the outer cold shuffled slowly like a half-frozen centipede toward the warm door.

Many had waited long hours. They leaned tiredly against the huge brick bulk of the building when the line halted. The middle-aged sagged wearily. The young made a jest of their fatigue.

As each one in the line entered the building he put down $3 and got a paper ticket. A man finally came out and told the dwindling group: "That's all. Sold out." They turned unhappily away.

But those early enough to get the tickets had passports into another world. They felt lucky to be able to buy standing room at the opening of the Metropolitan Opera.

They waited patiently as the fashionable ladies in mind and ornate rustled conspicuously to their seats. Then the great golden curtain lifted on the world they had come to see.

It was a land of lost delight to most Americans—the world of opera. It was the strange and tuneful land of Puccini, Verdi, Rossini, Offenbach, and the mighty melodies of a man named Wagner.

The names of the men who composed that world look to many like the signs on barbershops or random selections from a Teutonic phone book. But to the people who had waited in line that night the names

Conner Funeral Home, 296 Fair street, Tuesday at 9:30 o'clock and from St. Peter's Church at 10 o'clock when a high Mass of requiem was celebrated by the Rev. Joseph A. Geiss. Responses of the Mass were sung by Edward Cherny, assisted by Miss Anne A. Goldfarb, organist. The Rev. Henry E. Herdegen recited the Rosary. During the days the remains reposed in the funeral home, many friends called to offer sympathy and condole to the bereaved family. The casket was banked with beautiful flowers and the Mass card stand was filled with spiritual bouquets. Sunday evening Father Herdegen recited the Rosary from the funeral home and said prayers for the deceased. Burial was in St. Peter's Cemetery where Father Herdegen pronounced the final absolution.

Family Life Will Be Topic Tonight At County Meeting

The family in today's world will be discussed at the "family life" county meeting tonight at the Stone Ridge Episcopal Church Hall.

Mrs. Robert Kelder, member of the Ulster County Home Bureau executive committee and county sponsor of the child development and family relationship project, will preside.

Demonstrations will include the making of various shaped rolls from the beaten batter and from the basic yeast dough. She will also show how to make Swedish tea rings and various types of coffee cakes.

Leaders of the 4-H clubs are invited to attend and the 4-H Club office stressed the point that those who attend will be able to teach the methods to other club members.

Miss Girard will be the guest of the Ulster County Home Bureau which is sponsoring the program, as part of its food and nutrition project in the county. It extends an invitation to all who are interested.

'Friendship Train' Action Locally Is Being UndertakenFred Scharp Dies Of Heart Attack*German Street Resident Stricken at Work

Arrangements for the city's contribution to the "Friendship Train" were still pending today as negotiations were reported underway with railroad officials and men in charge of local preparations weighed the possibility of combining with Newburgh and Poughkeepsie in securing a freight car.

An announcement from New York, meanwhile, said that checks and packages intended as contributions to the train may be addressed, "Friendship Train," care of Postmaster, New York city.

Walter Donnaruma, president of the Lions Club, said today that he was making an effort to determine what could be done on the proposal that this city combine with Newburgh and Poughkeepsie in arranging for a car to carry the contributions of all three cities.

John Short of the Kingston Lions Club "Friendship Train" committee, also said today that railroad officials had been consulted to determine what could be done locally in arranging for a car, and that some announcement from that source was expected in the near future.

Local school teachers are also expected to assist in arranging for contributions to the train.

It was announced, meanwhile, that those interested in contributing to the movement through separate packages should make sure that their contributions are properly packaged in water-repellent paper.

It was also announced that the food most needed in Europe and which will be easiest to ship is: Bulk wheat, wheat flour, dried beans, dried peas, sugar, evaporated milk, macaroni and spaghetti.

Anything packed in glass can or be shipped and most canned goods contains so much water that it is not considered economical to ship.

The Man who Cares Says:

He draws $481 monthly from the government and the payments are to continue as long as he lives.

Besides the job and loan matters, Meyers and Hughes have given contradictory testimony on another point.

Meyers said that after the war Hughes offered him $100,000 to get New York city to lift a ban against showing of Hughes' sexy movie, "The Outlaw." Hughes declared he "positively" did not offer Meyers $100,000 but acknowledged consulting him about the ban.

Both men pleaded guilty. Davis was arrested Tuesday morning on charges that he allegedly stole a shaver at the Cut-Rate Drug Store, 324 Wall street. Brannin was charged with allegedly stealing an overcoat from O'Neill's Tavern on North Front street on Monday.

William Kelly, 71, who was said to have no home, was given 180 days on a disorderly conduct charge.

Legion Entertains 2,000 at Annual Armistice Ball

Sterling Vaudeville Program,
Good Local Music
Featured at Auditorium

For 29 years the American Legion Post 150 has been presenting entertainments and balls and the one held Tuesday night will be equally famous for its capacity crowd of more than 2,000; its fine entertainment and an outstanding orchestra of local musicians under the direction of Johnny Michaels. In spite of the weather it was estimated that more tickets were sold at the door than for any other dance at the auditorium. In addressing the audience Commander James G. Connolly enumerated some of the objects of the American Legion including support of legislation dealing with the veterans and their families; rehabilitation and its problems; Americanism by teaching youth the principles of American government through its merit awards and boy's states; child welfare in caring for needy children of veterans from both world wars; veterans' housing, foreign relations and employment of all men especially those who are disabled.

Praises Legion

John B. Sterley, honorary chairman, spoke of the commemoration of the Armistice and further pointed out the aims of the organization in saying, "This American Legion principally stands as one of the greatest organizations of all history against all forces that would undermine our very system of government . . . God bless America and may we remain one united people, and may that liberty and justice and pursuit of happiness ever more exist!"

chairman of the ball, welcomed the large audience and thanked all those who in any way helped toward the success. He also introduced the speakers and Jack Sayles, master of ceremonies and comedian.

Burke the Star

Johnny Burke, "left over from World War I," still continues to top the entertainment field in his satire of army life during the first World War with a few comparisons of the second global conflict added to the long line of jokes.

Marilyn Olde led the stars in acrobatic contortions as she proceeded to balance on her ribs, sit on her head, chin herself on her toes, all the while working on a small table platform. Ladd Lyon and Co. also executed unique tumbling and balancing acts using as props chairs standing on bottles.

The Martyns, who played at the Paladium Theatre in London only two weeks ago, gave an exhibition of smartly styled ballroom dancing combined with rodding, different rhythms and some ballet. Their timing was swift and execution seemingly effortless.

The other dance team of Nina Novak and Diana Lure alternated the classic bullet and tap routines. Miss Novak first appeared in a solo typical of the bullet theatre and later returned to do one of the more recent styles of sprightly humorous stories told in comic dance costume. Miss Lure was applauded for her tap dancing and did a routine imitating Bill Robinson.

Julia Ounnings with a few clothing accessories caricatured famous people of the entertainment world such as Zazu Pitts, Katherine Hepburn, Betty Davis, Vera Vague, Charlie McCarthy, Carmen Miranda and three different singers: Hildegarde, Gracie Fields and Jeanette MacDonald. Jack Sayles filled in with bits of humor.

Good Local Band

The 15-piece orchestra under Johnny Michaels' direction played for the show and dancing. The ensemble is probably one of the best of local talent heard in a number of years at a ball.

At 11 o'clock the customary memorial service was held with a poem by Cardinal Spellman recited by Roger Loughran; and prayer given by the Rev. John F. Kelly, post chaplain. The ceremony closed with the singing of the Lord's Prayer by a group from Kingston High School. A Cappella Choir, and taps played by John Jordan. Members of the Legion color guard were Clarence L. Hyde, chairman of the ceremony, Edward Luedtke, assistant chairman, Thomas Bonan, Leon Cady, Charles H. Hummer, Jr., Joseph Silis, Louis Tudoroff, Clarence E. Brown, and Victor Osborne.

The American Legion Auxiliary had charge of serving refreshments.

tween the nation's small and large colleges, the residential and day school types, the co-educational and men's and women's, and the liberal arts and vocational colleges.

Vocational schools, he said, are best suited for those who plan careers based on specialized study and the liberal arts for those who seek a more general education for work which requires broad knowledge or as preliminary study for professional career.

Colleges in cities, he said, are best suited for those who wish to participate in the civic, social and cultural life of a city, while those in the country offer "a kind of outdoor life in less complex surroundings."

Bard Has 290 Students

Bard, he said, is a small, residential, liberal arts college with 160 men and 130 women enrolled. It seeks to develop the talents of each individual student, to encourage intellectual vigor with an intense and sustained interest. It stresses the communication of ideas and artistic sensitivity, physical health, moral integrity, sense of direction, humility and concern for the worthwhileness of one's life.

The college is a democratic institution, he said. Every student has a faculty advisor and the students and members of the faculty units in working out courses and in general school activities. Classes are small and the faculty is relatively large. The school's policy favors discussions rather than lectures, and a class of 20 is considered a large one.

The college functions on a system of community government and it has many active clubs. It holds conferences periodically such as one recently attended by students of 30 nations, and in its work of treating the student as a whole personality, the speaker stressed, it feels it is making an effective contribution in the world of education.

Religious Film To Be Shown at Rondout Church

The first religious film produced by the new Protestant Film Commission, "Beyond Our Own," which had its New York premiere Monday will be shown at the Rondout Presbyterian and Wurts Street Baptist Church Thursday evening, 7 o'clock. The film will be one of the major items of interest at the local church's annual congregational corporation meeting to be held in the chapel fellowship hall.

Although the motion picture has been professionally produced in Hollywood, the directors have had the advantage of consultation with some of the ablest advisors in religious film production in this country and abroad, said the Rev. Dr. William Carter Cain, pastor of the local church. It is the powerful and moving portrayal of Christianity at work in China in the midst of the Japanese invasion.

The film was previewed by clergymen, religious educators and church executives Monday at Fifth Avenue Presbyterian Church and in the report the New York Times said that "two overflow showings were held to accommodate persons unable to find seats in the Fifth Avenue chapel. One was in a third floor assembly room of the church and the other at the Broadway Tabernacle."

Dr. Harry Gideonse, president of Brooklyn College, described the film as the "first serious effort" to adapt the medium of the motion picture to religious education. The Rev. Dr. Franklin Clark Fry, president of the United Lutheran Church in America, urged churchmen to use films for educational and entertainment purpose. "They are one of the most important means of communication in the twentieth century," he said.

The Rev. Dr. Cain, in making the announcement of the film showing, also announced that John G. Gredler, well-known Christian businessman and churchman,

SHOKAN NEWS

Shokan, Nov. 10.—Lt. and Mrs. A. R. Pernice and daughter, Joanne Marie, left Yokohama, Japan, November 3 for this country, according to a cablegram received last week by Mr. and Mrs. Elson S. Oakley, parents of Mrs. Pernice. They are expected to arrive here in time for Thanksgiving. Lieutenant Pernice, who is attached to the 24th Division, Cooks and Bakers School, has been in the army more than three years, two of which were spent with his division in Kokura, Kyusu. Mrs. Pernice and her daughter went to Japan last December.

Edward Lumino, who is attending a high school on Long Island, spent the week-end with his mother here.

Unusual, if not unprecedented incidents of the Olive district No. 1 poll in Windell's Hall last Tuesday: Three women—Mary Merithew, Vera Sickler and Maebel Robeson—served on the board; Homer Markle, Jr., and Millard Bell, opposing candidates for assessor, each received 199 votes.

Harold Buley and family, formerly of Ann street, Kingston, are making their home in the Alex. Hamilton house on the Tonche Mountain road.

Belle K. Scholz, nationally known sculptor, has sold her residence property on the north side of the Boiceville hill road to Virgil K. Seigel of Boiceville. Friends of David Hillson, Phoenicia forest ranger who died last week, recall that back in the fall of 1912 "Dave" shot a bear near the summit of Slide Mountain, highest peak in the Catskills. Mr. Hillson, accompanied by John Rider, tramped about 20 miles before they came within shooting distance of old Bruin, and they had a hard time getting the bear down the steep slope of Slide as the snow was up to three feet in depth. The Shandaken hunters sold their bear meat to James Winnie, proprietor of the Stuyvesant Hotel in Kingston.

Local streams sent a mighty volume of water down into the east and west basins of the reservoir Friday. Wells went up as if by magic; one resident who has an open dug well with pulley and bucket hoist, could hardly believe his eyes when he looked into the 30-foot shaft and saw water within four feet of the ground surface. And so ended the big drought of '47!

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Gollman of Kingston have rented the George Whittle house in Ashokan. They are natives of Olive and Floyd has long been a member of the Ashokan Reservoir force. Mr. Whittle is residing with his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Burt Jones, in Kingston.

West-bound traffic between Shokan and upper Esopus Valley was detoured over the dividing weir bridge, main dam and Route 28-A Friday afternoon as a result of flood conditions at the Dunnagan curve where a culvert had become clogged up. There was a slide on the Ridge Road at Hogback which deposited a truckload of soil and stones on the hill just off the state road.

Bluejays made their initial appearance here Friday according to one farmer who says that these birds, but impudent birds will "nuke off with ear-corn and everything else edible that is left outdoors.

November 10, 1854, a "raising" was held to put up the framework of David Weeks' sawmill along the West Butternutkill in the Coone district of Shokan. This was on the present Edward Wiederspelt place. Barn and mill raisings were one form of "bees."

Mrs. Geronima Pecon of Manila is a candidate for the Philippine Senate on the Liberal Party ticket. If she wins the Nov. 11 election, she will be the first woman senator that part of the world has ever known. Photo by Bert Brandt, on round-the-world flight via Pan American Airways.

Education Week Observed in Kingston Schools

About nine pounds of plastic parts are used in a modern passenger automobile.

Mme. Senator?

Freeman photographer Ken Roosa, accompanied by Superintendent A. J. Laird paid a call on the Myron J. Michael School, where there are 708 pupils in attendance with 26 teachers assigned to carry out their educational program.

The Freeman presents this series of pictures on the activities of the local schools, which currently are observing American Education Week. The general theme of the observance of American Education Week is "The Schools Are Yours—Visit Them." Parents are especially invited to visit the schools this week.

At the M. J. M. School library activities as shown in the above picture are directed by Miss Isabel Malone. These activities reach out into every subject area and leisure time activities carried on in the school. In this picture students may be observed searching out information which will be of use to them in their daily lives. Some of the girls who are interested in knowing how a library functions are being trained to classify and check out books and magazines, which are in the school. Others are working on an art project which brings beautiful colored reproductions of famous paintings into every classroom.

The class in physical education shown in the lower picture is an example of the type of body building activity carried on in the school. Because of well planned and well organized activities, girls and boys are able to build up competence in physical ability and to develop health habits and attitudes which will remain with them throughout their adult life.

In addition to regular classes Miss Jane Ward, girls' physical director, conducts competition with other schools and a wide program of after school activities including soccer, field hockey, basketball and volleyball are enjoyed.

Landlords Get Break

Landlords are getting a break in Southern Rhodesia because the housing shortage continues to be the top headache of the government there, Salisbury reports. To encourage people who normally don't rent rooms to do so, the law has been changed so that they can get rid of unsatisfactory tenants at the expiration of the lease. Other steps to meet the crisis include establishment of tent camps for immigrants and the building of hundreds of "wattle-and-daub" homes of two rooms and a kitchen.

MODENA NEWS

Modena, Nov. 11.—Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Peck of Hartford, Conn., and a sister of Mrs. William Fowler of Modena, Word has been received here of the death of Mrs. Marie Peck, wife of Leon Peck of Hartford, Conn., and a sister of Mrs. William Fowler of Modena.

—Mr. and Mrs. George Matheisen and daughter, Christine, were overnight visitors of relatives in New Jersey on Thursday and celebrated the former's birthday.

American Education Week is being observed in all the schools in the Wallkill Centralized Districts, from November 9 to 14, inclusive. Parents are welcome to visit classes and acquaint themselves with all phases of the school program.

Miss Marguerite Smith visited Mrs. Robert Guice of Ravana at the Kingston Hospital on Saturday.

The Modena Home Bureau will meet Wednesday, November 12, at the Clintondale Grange Hall, commencing at 10:30. A business meeting will be conducted by the chairman, Mrs. Eldred A. Smith, and projects demonstrated as follows: Low Cost Family Meals by Mrs. Giles Randall; Christmas Kit, Mrs. Louis Hyatt; Local Government by Mrs. Burton Ward; Pot-luck lunch at noon, members providing their own dishes.

Shelby Harcourt, Elizabeth Wells and Paul Pedersen are on the committee for the semi-formal dance, the Mardi Gras Ball, to be held Friday evening, Nov. 28 at the school by members of the Sophomore Class. Music for dancing will be furnished by Ray Nelson's orchestra. Proceeds from the dance will be used for expense of the proposed trip to Washington, D. C., by the class in its senior year.

Local people enjoyed the sermon broadcast Sunday, Nov. 9, through WCBS, Church of the Air program when the Rev. J. Dykstra of the Fair Street Reformed Church, Kingston, delivered a sermon.

Plans are complete for the dance which members of the Modena Fire Department will hold on Thursday evening, Nov. 20 in Hassbrook Memorial Hall. Music for

2 Kingston Men Will Aid Veterans

Karnaghan and Van Ingen to Check Job Rights

Mr. Barton points out that the right to return to their former jobs was guaranteed all veterans by Acts of Congress which are still in effect. Hence men and women enlisting today will be entitled to their present jobs upon out cost to the veteran.

A veteran must be restored to his former job if the position was other than temporary, if he was discharged under honorable conditions, if he applies within 90 days after discharge, and if he is still qualified to do the work.

Veterans and employers can also get information about reemployment rights at any office of the New York State Employment Service or from counselors of the State Division of Veterans Affairs. Disagreements will be handled by the Volunteer Reemployment Rights Committee, though veterans can appeal from their decisions to the Regional Office of the V.R.R.D. If the Regional Office is unable to arrange a settlement the U. S. District Attorney files suit against the employer, and handles the case without cost to the veteran.

Calf Selection Day.

Saturday, Nov. 1, Philip Rahl

of Washingtonville was host to 50 boys and girls, their parents,

12 Guernsey calves and 28 Holstein calves. All morning, boys, girls and calves were getting acquainted with each other. Mr.

Rahl's calf barn was very appropriate for the occasion. Leslie

Nicholas, Orange county 4-H Club

agent was one of the first arrivals with a record player, and loud speaker to provide music, loud

speaking and the football game for those who had time.

The boys and girls were 4-H members from Orange, Sullivan and Ulster county, and some of the boys were F. F. A. members from the three counties. Everyone brought his or her own lunch and enjoyed the milk and apples provided by Rahl.

At 1:30 p. m. the Guernsey calf selection was held. The girls and boys purchasing these calves were: Lee Hutzler, Gene Walter, Ronald Judson, Burt Cartwright and Anita Hutzler.

At 2 p. m. the Holstein selection was held when John Meredith,

Mary Trip, Gaylord Hall, Phyllis

Turner, Bert Zwart, Clifford Kelsey, Steven Kraza, Orland Kirby,

Howard Sexton, Daniel Frikke,

Richard Walter, Peter Zwart and

Fred Turner bought Holstein

calves.

The Guernsey breeders taking part in this selection were J. C.

Penny, Charles Lake, Dennis

Corey, Robert Lake, Orville Meij-

er, Forge Hill Farm, A. H.

Chambers and H. Davis.

The Holstein breeders who took part by sending calves to this selection were A. H. Jones, S.

Larce, Biven and Son, V. Hatch,

R. E. Ogden, J. Blake Winter &

Son, Ferris Malcom, E. A. Ter-

williger, Paul Leip, John Roebuck,

Alfred Bedell & Son, Garrison

William Huile, Rider Farms, Harry Brach, William Johnson, and Philip Rahl.

Charles Slater, Forge Hill Farm,

Orange county and Wilbur Cook,

Hidden Valley Farm, Ulster county

took charge of the Guernsey program. Clarence Schoonmaker of Ulster county took charge of the Holstein. By 4 p. m. the calves were on their way to new homes and the breeders were counting over some $1,740 from calf sales.

Staff Member in China Will Speak at Annual World Fellowship Service for Local Y.W.C.A.

LELIA M. HINKLEY

*Miss Lelia M. Hinkley, staff member of the foreign division of the Young Women's Christian Association, who spent two years in an enemy concentration camp in China during the war, will be in Kingston Sunday as guest speaker at the annual world fellowship service at the First Dutch Reformed Church Chapel at 4 p. m., bringing to a close observance of World Fellowship Week which has as its theme this year "That this world under God may have a new birth of freedom."

Undaunted by her war-time experience, Miss Hinkley, who is on furlough now, will return to China in January, 1948, to become religious education secretary of the national committee of the Y.W.C.A. in that country, with headquarters in Shanghai.

A graduate of the University of Chicago, with an M.A. from Columbia University, Miss Hinkley went to China for the Y.W.C.A. in 1920 and remained until 1947. Most of her stay there was in Peiping, where the Y.W.C.A. had a flourishing hostel owned and operated by Chinese women. It

Comedy Will Be Given Two Nights by Church Youth

With the final dress rehearsals underway the comedy, "Peck's Bad Boy," promises to be a success according to the Youth Fellowship at First Dutch Reformed Church. The young people will present the play Thursday and Friday evenings at 8 o'clock in Bethany Hall at the church.

The play follows a long line of successful annual plays including, "Hand Brinker," "Little Women," "The Tinker," "The Blue Boy," "Go Slow, Mary," and others. Tickets may be purchased at the door.

Concerts Given For Shut-ins

Continuing its program of free concerts for the shut-ins, Musicians Local 215, sponsored two concerts during the week-end under the direction of Clementine Nessel.

Sunday afternoon a group of four musicians gave an informal program at the Ulster County Tuberculosis Hospital where after giving an hour concert on each of the two floors, the musicians visited the patients who were confined to their beds.

Those participating were Julius Tellier, violin, who plays first violin with the Dutchess County Philharmonic Symphony Orchestra; Roland Myers, string bass, of Port Ewen; Earl Terwilliger, baritone, who is studying at Juilliard School of Music; and Mrs. Nessel, piano accordion.

A group of seven went to the City Home, Flatbush avenue, Monday evening to give a most diversified program of standard concert numbers as well as old fashioned recitals and many requests. As one of the women told the musicians, "You have awakened the warmest memories of a more pleasant past in the hearts of all of us."

The group was composed of Harry Maisenholder, piano; Julius Tellier, violin; Roland Myers, string bass; Ole Christensen, clarinet; Harry Spiegel, drums; Martin Kelly, vocals; and Mrs. Nessel, piano accordion.

Today the still-intact Peiping Y.W.C.A. hostel shelters 90 girls and volunteers have organized an active program of classes and clubs. Its community service center aids people in the crowded city districts with family casework. There is also a supervised playground for children, a clinic, and a school for underprivileged children. Despite the destruction of many of its hostels, the inflation and the poverty of China today, the Y.W.C.A. is at work in 15 major cities of the country, has established eight of its proposed ten new student centers in colleges and universities and is working cooperatively with other organizations in 38 colleges.

Legionnaires Will Open Season on November 19 Against Beacon

Semi-Pro Cagers To Play Weekly Games at Home

Kingston's newly organized semi-professional basketball team—the Legionnaires—open their season against the Beacon Varsity on Wednesday, November 19, at the municipal auditorium, Andy Murphy III, team manager announced this morning.

Featuring eight of the best known players in the city, the Legionnaires will play every Wednesday night at the auditorium against the best independent opposition available.

Exhibition games also are planned later in the season against such road attractions as the House of David, Harlem Globetrotters, Original Renaissance, Detroit Clowns and teams of that caliber. An exhibition or two against American League opposition also is contemplated.

Roster Announced

The eight-man roster that has been drilling regularly at Wallkill Prison where Murphy is athletic director and the auditorium includes such local standouts as:

Jack Ruzzo, New York Military Academy.

George Bloom, K.H.S.

Andy Murphy III, K.H.S., Manhattan, Notre Dame.

Tommy Maines, K.H.S., Syracuse.

Charlie Bock, K.H.S., Syracuse.

Ray Lindhurst, K.H.S., Fink McElrath, K.H.S.

Milt Dublin, K.H.S.

Ruzzo, Bloom and Lindhurst are listed as forwards; Murphy will roll forth at center; with Maines, Bock, McElrath and Dublin doing guard duty.

Ralph Barnes Due

Tentative arrangements have been completed to bring Ralph Barnes' Mount Vernon All Stars here for the Thanksgiving attraction on November 27, followed by Millerton with Wesley Westrum on December 3.

Brauna, the Brooklyn Dodger 21-game winner in 1947, played varsity basketball at N.Y.U. before he chose baseball as a career. Westrum, of course, is well known to Kingston fans as a former Recreation catcher, who made the big league grade with the New York Giants late this season.

Andy Dykes, veteran basketball star, is being sought as floor leader for the Legionnaires, Murphy said. The former K.H.S. star who ranks among the finest players ever developed by Coach G. Warren Klas has not yet accepted the proposition, but is expected to agree before the opening date.

The Quaint Art of "Amura"

The gallant swain wasn't even slightly ruffled when his sweethearts clutched at his arm eagerly and exclaimed: "Darling, did you hear that? It sounds like a murder."

The swain said nothing but a thin smile creased his face. They walked a couple of steps and the unearthly noises pouring from the tavern were roaring to a tremendous crescendo. It sounded awful and certainly no murder was ever accompanied by that much noise.

The sweet thing was now thoroughly alarmed.

"Don't you think we should call the cops," she said, "I know something terrible is happening in there."

The swain still remained silent but smiling. The young couple was passing Tommy DeCicco's tavern on North street and the swain knew what was transpiring. A group of wildly shouting leather-jungled men, from kids to grandpas, were beating their guns at a furious pace in that quaint Italian art of "amura."

The word "amura" sounds a great deal like the Italian word for love but in no academic sense are the two to be confused.

The swain assured his loved one that these fellows weren't mad at each other. They were playing "amura" to the hilt and you do that by outsmarting and outshouting the opposition dizzy.

No Equipment Needed, Just Fingers

You may have seen a group of wildly excited men, predominantly of Italian parentage, playing "amura." It's as simple as A.B.C. All the equipment necessary are five fingers on either hand, a good pair of lungs and a good feint.

The players flash fingers on the hand simultaneously. The idea is to call the total of fingers which are flashed. Each correct call counts a point. The game is played between individuals or teams. The teams line up facing each other and the contest proceeds down the line until each pair has called a point.

As simple as it may seem the game still has its points of finesse. The more astute players have a way of delaying their hand, while drawing the opponent into showing his hand. Sort of a delayed whistle you might say. This little trick and the inevitable differences of opinion as whether a player "went all the way" with his flash are the principal causes of rhubarbs among the players. According to the rules, a player can flash a closed fist and that, of course, adds up to zero plus what the other fellow shows.

The tradition of the game is such that two players generally start in a moderate tone of voice and suddenly whip themselves into a frenzy as the match nears a climax. They shout, they yell, they snarl, they make godawful noises but they have a barrel of fun. And don't think it isn't serious business for some of the sharpies. It's a fine game.

Highly Developed in Area

The game is highly developed among the American-Italian young men of the area and not a few Irishmen and Bohunks are creeping into the picture. As a matter of fact it was with some misgivings that we learned that George Fay, of East Kingston, who is as Irish as Paddy's pig, won a prize in the recent East Kingston-Rondout-Kingston Point tournament for compiling the highest string of consecutive points. Surely, we thought, "The fine Italian hands" were beginning to slip. But we were quickly assured that Mr. Fay picked up his skin by exposure. He was born and raised in East Kingston and has had plenty of opportunity to study and outsmart the "Italians" at their own game.

Competition is so keen among the better known sharpies that a player who bats .550 in 200 points or more over the season is strictly big league. It's even money, take your pick, every time the fingers are flashed and ties don't count, so the possibility of building up a large winning percentage is remote.

East Kingston with headquarters at Johnny "Chuck" Mauro's tavern, Rondout, with all the shouting at Tommy DeCicco's and the Kingston Point have an annual "amura" league, topped off by a splendid banquet that matches the best bowling leagues in gastronomical and entertainment appeal.

Some of the Better Known Aces

Each club has its standouts, the men who are counted on to bring in the points in the clutch. Out in East Kingston, one time center of the brick industry and birthplace of long ball hitters, a couple of real shotshots are Michael "McGraw" Tian and Charlie Macchione. We started our baseball career with cousin McGraw 20 years ago with the Brigham A.C., and it was quite a ball club as the Rondout A.C., Blue Sox, Shenandoahs and others discovered to their dismay.

While McGraw and Macchione draw most of the plaudits, others held in high esteem are George Fay and Tom Parker, who definitely are not of Italian parentage; Jimmy Gallo, Julius Chick and many others. Ahmed "Smedes" Parise, who has moved to Poughkeepsie, was at one time regarded as kingpin in East Kingston while Ralph Nardi, who is no longer active, was way up the list.

In the Rondout section the two DeCicos, Joe "Pep" DeCicco and Tommy DeCicco are considered tops, with Charlie Charlemont, Joey Turck and Louis Marelio rated among the better than average performers. The DeCicos carried off a basketful of prizes in the recent tournaments.

Jesse Lawrence is regarded as the Kingston Point expert but crowding Jess for top honors are Frank Dominico, the old Hutton A.C. pitcher; Tommy Turck, Lou DeCicco, Jimmy MacCalline, Tommy Yonta and Sam Clausi.

It's a great sport and they love it, noise and all. What's more intriguing about the whole setup is that the originators of the finger art now find themselves crowded by such fine Italian names as Parker, Fay, Chick, Dudek and others. But, brethren, is it noisy!

Williamson Ratings

Notre Dame made sense and so moved into first place in the Williamson Football Ratings this week. So did Michigan which remains a solid second. But there were still traces of the same kind of dizziness last week in football results that marked the game from the opening kickoff of the 1947 season.

While the Irish were clipping Army, there were upsets, chiefly among closely rated teams. The Brown win over Yale, 20-14, couldn't be justified. But other apparent upsets made some small amount of sense on close analysis.

Among the games that pitched the ball with a wide curve were Missouri's 28-7 drubbing of Duke, 12-0, win by Miami, Ohio over Dayton; New Mexico's 34-3 job on Fresno; a 26-0 Rice win over Arkansas and Tulsa's 13-0 blanking of Oklahoma A&M.

Ole Miss moved into the top ten, as did L.S.U. Virginia lost to Penn and fell out; Penn State bowed all the way out to 39th position. Virginia tumbled to 23rd, while Army is now 28th.

Notre Dame Spikes Reports Leahy Offered Resignation

South Bend, Ind., Nov. 12 (AP)—Notre Dame becoming a football Frankenstein, too powerful for its own good?

It is no secret that the University has run into schedule difficulties and that some schools of the gridiron class required for a representative season are being scared off.

The severing of relations with Army — whether the 34-year-old rivalry had become dangerously over-emphasized or for off-the-record reasons involving personalities — shocked many Notre Dame alumni.

And now, just a few days after the Irish walloped the Cadets 27-7 in the series' finale, come reports that Coach Frank Leahy offered his resignation.

The school's president and vice president, the Revs. John J. Kavanaugh and John H. Murphy, respectively, quickly denied that Leahy had proposed to quit, either orally or in writing. Then Leahy issued a statement through the Notre Dame publicity section that he would "consider it a great honor and privilege to remain at Notre Dame for as long a period of time as university officials believe I can be an asset to this institution."

Leahy was unavailable for direct comment on whether he had offered to resign.

Competition Dwindles

Arch Ward, sports editor of the Chicago Tribune, said that Leahy had offered to quit his job as far back as October, 1946, "if university executives felt his presence on the athletic staff was detrimental to the best interest of the institution."

The report was started yesterday by Joe Williams of the New York World Telegram and H. G. Salsinger of the Detroit News who wrote that Leahy offered to resign because of repercussions of the Army-Irish break-off.

Williams said that Army's farewell was "only one withdrawal in a long series (from football schedules) and, as these withdrawals mounted, the football set-up at Notre Dame began to lose stability and no little prestige."

Privately, the Army's attitude may be similar to that held by several Big Nine schools — that Notre

Missionaries Are Heard at Church

New Paltz, Nov. 12.—The Rev. and Mrs. Walter G. Griffiths and daughter, Eleanor, missionaries to Calcutta, India, who are on furlough, were guests of the Seekers Class of the Methodist Church Sunday school last Thursday evening.

The Rev. Mr. Griffiths, superintendent of the Lee Memorial Mission in Calcutta, related some of his experiences in the foreign land and also told of the work now being done in the school. Mrs. Griffiths has been principal of the school since 1940 after the retirement of Mrs. Ada Lee, who with her husband organized the mission in memory of their six children who perished in the Darjeeling disaster in 1899. Mr. Lee is now 92.

Mrs. Griffiths spoke of the hardships which the people of the land have endured. She also sang in the foreign tongue, while clad in the India costume.

Following the services refreshments were served in the church parlors by the committee in charge.

The Griffiths plan to leave this country in January to resume their duties in India for a period of another eight years.

Others addressing the press association, whose members report American events for foreign newspapers, were: Warren A. Austin, permanent U. S. delegate to the U.N.; Dr. Oswaldo Aranha of Brazil, general assembly president; Sir Hartley Shawcross, British U.N. delegate; Dr. V. K. Wellington Koo, Chinese ambassador to the United States, and Alexander Pardi, permanent U. N. delegate from France.

Given the association's first annual award for contributing to international understanding, Albert Einstein said in an address telephoned from his Princeton, N. J., home that he saw little hope of an intelligent agreement being reached soon to eliminate the threat of an atomic war.

President Truman, in a message read by Simon Koster, president of the association, congratulated the organization on its 30th anniversary and said groups of its kind "can do much to promote understanding among nations and hence the cause of world peace."

many's invasion of Russia, a "prominent American statesman" suggested that America lend its aid to the country that appeared to be losing and in that way "let them kill as many as possible."

The New York Times of June 24, 1941, carried a story on Washington reaction to the German invasion and quoted Mr. Truman, among others as saying:

"If we see that Germany is winning we ought to help Russia; and if Russia is winning we ought to help Germany and that way let them kill as many as possible, although I don't want to see Hitler victorious under any circumstances. Neither of them thinks anything of their pledged word."

A British statesman expressed similar views at the same time. Vishinsky continued, adding that he also would not identify the Britain since "this is too good an occasion."

In his first speech outside the United Nations hall during the current assembly session, Vishinsky spoke rapidly, pounded the speaker's table occasionally, and departed frequently from his prepared text.

In one interpolation, he conceded that U.N. "is having a truly difficult time" and in another accused many delegations of displaying disdain for the charter and principles of the world organization. He specifically accused Great Britain, the U.S., China and France in this respect.

Keenan and Mayor Vincent W. Murphy were resting after their Amistic Day call to arms to blockade the channel and prevent "turning the city into a graveyard for old navy ships."

The Duffy took its position at 2300 yesterday, but its patrol of the channel was delayed for more than two hours because a tanker was inadvertently blocking the channel while discharging oil.

During the patrol contact by radio had been lost with the fleet's sister ship, the William P. Brennan. The Duffy's fuel was running low at dawn and pleas for relief to "Admiral" John B. Keenan, who acts as city public safety director in less crucial times, went unanswered.

Keenan and Mayor Vincent W. Murphy were resting after their Amistic Day call to arms to blockade the channel and prevent "turning the city into a graveyard for old navy ships."

The Duffy took its position at 2300 yesterday, but its patrol of the channel was delayed for more than two hours because a tanker was inadvertently blocking the channel while discharging oil.

On the second floor are the model showrooms with bedroom by Morgan of Asheville, Rockford National, and Williamsport; early American living room by Halligan of Wayne county; dining room by Alliance of Jamestown; maple room by Cushman of Bennington, Vt., and Merrimac of New Hampshire; kitchen by Leonard and Morton; bedding by Simmons and Ostermoor.

Will Witness Maneuvers

Istanbul, Nov. 12 (AP)—President Ismet Inonu, Premier Hasan Saka and other governmental leaders were expected today to leave for Thrace to witness the first extensive field maneuvers undertaken by the Turkish Army since before the war. Naval maneuvers are being held simultaneously on the Black Sea. Inonu arrived here yesterday from Ankara. Press commentators said that his absence from the capital, at a time when "political matters" normally would have dictated his presence there, gave added significance to the maneuvers.

Lansdale Reports
New York Welfare
Is of Major Concern

City's Situation Not Unique
State Commissioner
Says: Fundamentals
Are Emerging

Silent on Marriage
New York, Nov. 12 (AP)—State Social Welfare Commissioner Robert T. Lansdale says that when a relief system "as gigantic as New York city's begins to totter, it is a major concern" to the nation.

"The situation in New York city, while unique in certain aspects, is not an isolated phenomenon," Lansdale said last night at the opening of the 48th annual meeting of the state conference on social work.

The commissioner said aid must be based strictly on "established need" rather than on psycho-analysis by "young, untrained workers." Use of public assistance as means to get at "more deep-seated" social problems has resulted in violation of the social welfare law, he said.

Tracing the history of the state's current investigation of New York city's welfare administration, he declared that "some fundamental matters are, beginning to emerge."

"First, we need both more and better training facilities," Lansdale said. "Secondly, there is confusion in the application of case-work theory and practice to public assistance administration. Thirdly, consideration must be given to the supervision of workers at the operating level, to case records and their part in supervision, and to the chain of command in the public agency. Finally, the system of decentralized or local administration of public welfare in New York state is a question."

Referring to the New York city probe, which began after newspaper stories last spring reported relief families were being housed in hotels and that some "high grant" cases drew as much as $600 assistance monthly, Lansdale asserted:

"It appears that in recent years some of the workers in the city department of welfare have been using public assistance as a means of establishing a 'rapport' in order to get at more deep seated problems. Such procedure in a private social agency that is offering a clinical casework service may be entirely proper."

"It's application to a public assistance agency, however, represents a failure to appreciate the primary function of the agency, which is to grant assistance on the basis of established need."

Runs Into Car

Marie Papillo, 16, of 75 North Front street, suffered minor injuries about 7:15 p.m. Tuesday when she ran into a 1934 Ford pick-up truck operated by Seymour Arnost Winnie, the police reported today. Miss Papillo, the police said, ran out from the curb while Winnie was operating west on North Front street. After being treated by Dr. John Oliver, the girl was returned to her home.

Tornado Injures 21

Elgin Field, Fla., Nov. 12 (AP)—Thirteen soldiers at the army's huge proving ground here were injured and eight other persons suffered hurts when two widely separated tornadoes struck northwest Florida yesterday. Two temporary wood and tar paper barracks collapsed here and a dozen houses were leveled at the village of Ebro 40 miles to the east.
